RESOURCES – KEY POINTS

1. Will not require any changes to the existing structure or course offerings of either department
2. Sixteen of the 19 courses are already being taught by existing faculty from both departments as part of their load
3. We searched for art therapists in the state of Maryland through the American Art Therapy Association website and found 17, 12 of whom are board certified. Six have experience teaching Art Therapy I and Art Therapy II
4. This new major would require sufficient funds to cover the cost of these two contracts

5. Facility/Equipment/Library Resources

No additional resources would be needed. If the two Art Therapy courses require any supplies, a lab fee would be added as with other Studio Art courses.
