Amazing instruction! Patient, understanding and thoughtful , out -of -the- box teaching style! He really cares if the students are learning and helps them individually to ensure a positive learning experience!

I understand that this is just Painting I but maybe give the students the chance to do their last project on whatever they want. A chance to use what they learn in their own style because not everyone enjoys painting in the style of naturalism.

Question: Additional comments

I consider all the ceramic courses I have had at Hood a build up to this course and the capstone show it results in. So I have literally been testing materials and honing my skills for 2 and a half years to get to this point. So yes, much effort was applied to this course. I am so thankful Hood has this course and ARTS 469 to prepare us for life after college, so to speak!

This class was a lot of hard work but in the end it really shows how hard artist have to work. I really loved creating my show work and having the class with you made it all the more memorable!

The only thing that was ever an issue in this class was a lack of studio etiquette and a pension to get off topic. I feel a refresher on basic safety practices and how to share a workspace could benefit this class in the future. But to be fair I'd recommend that for any studio art class at Hood because it seems to be an institution wide issue.

I think Arts 470 should be taken before Arts 469. I have gotten to know Prof. Cuddington better through the process of creating work and critiques. It's sad that the semester is ending just as a student/teacher bond was forming. It is also very difficult to ask students to write a gallery talk before we have actually created anything for the show. It would make better sense to intertwine studio work days in with class days.
